

The Division of Emergency Medicine at The University of Vermont Larner College of Medicine (LCOM) is seeking an EMS fellowship trained, BC/BE emergency medicine physician with a passion for rural EMS to join our growing EMS faculty and academic division.

Appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor (Clinical Scholar Pathway) will be commensurate with years of experience and accomplishments. Clinical responsibilities will be at the University of Vermont Medical Center in Burlington, VT and our rural affiliate sites, Elizabethtown Community Hospital in Elizabethtown, NY and Champlain Valley Physicians Hospital in Plattsburgh, NY. EMS responsibilities include serving as EMS medical director for Essex County, NY, a beautiful 1900 square mile area of northern New York containing Adirondack Park, and participating in network wide EMS operations, with opportunities for air and ground transport as well as mountain rescue.

The University of Vermont Medical Center is the primary teaching hospital of the Larner College of Medicine. It is an ACS verified Level 1 Trauma Center for adult and Level 2 Trauma Center for pediatric patients. It is a major tertiary referral center for the state of Vermont and upstate New York. With an historical annual census of 62,000 patients with high acuity, the Emergency Department is known for high quality patient care and dedicated teaching faculty. UVMHC is the home and primary clinical site for the Emergency Medicine residency and 14 other residency and 21 fellowship programs accredited by the ACGME.

CVPH is a community medical center and a regional referral hospital serving as an ACS Level 3 trauma center, partnered with the University of Vermont Medical Center. Historically, the ED at CVPH treats more than 40,000 emergency department patients per year. This position offers the unique opportunity to work in a community setting while having an active affiliation with the UVMHN Emergency Medicine residency and participate in medical student education. Successful candidates will have opportunities to participate in the academic, educational, and scholarly missions of the UVMHN.

ECH is a community medical center with two sites, both EDs staffed by community and academic Emergency Medicine providers. Both sites, Elizabethtown and Ticonderoga, provide critical access care with approximately 7,000 visits per year per site. The UVMHN is dedicated to providing high quality, efficient, patient-centered emergency care in our rural settings, and is specifically seeking an EMS trained physician to lead our rural prehospital care program in Essex County, NY.

Although all interested candidates are encouraged to apply, strong preference will be given to candidates with experience in the teaching, clinical, and research activities of academic emergency medicine.

The University is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through their research, teaching, and/or service. Applicants are requested to include in their cover letter information about how they will further this goal.

The University of Vermont is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other category legally protected by federal or state law. The University encourages applications from all individuals who will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the institution.

Interested individuals should apply online at <https://www.uvmjobs.com/postings/45310>. Inquiries may be sent to Dr. Ramsey Herrington, EM Division Chief, c/o Kristin Allard at Kristin.Allard@uvmhealth.org.